

Brazonics, Inc. Selected as BAE Systems Preferred Supplier

Hampton, NH, December 18, 2008—Brazonics Inc., a TSI company, has been selected by BAE Systems as a preferred supplier of components to its electronic warfare business.

Mike Mastergeorge, president of Brazonics, states, “BAE Systems is a valued customer of ours and we are honored to become a preferred supplier. Supporting BAE Systems and their efforts to align their supply chain is of top priority to Brazonics. Our products and services must exceed our customers’ expectations in terms of quality and value so that we remain a strategic business partner.”

Bruce McAlister, BAE Systems’ mechanical commodity lead, said, “In this increasingly competitive marketplace, it is imperative that we commit to continuous improvement. We look to our supply partners, including Brazonics, to take the journey with us.”

Brazonics has been supplying BAE Systems with dip-brazed fabrications in support of fighter aircraft electronics for more than a decade.
