Woven Electronics Appoints Michael Lobkovich Director of Sales

August 25, 2008, Simpsonville, SC—Woven Electronics, LLC, a TSI Company, is pleased to announce the appointment of Michael Lobkovich as director of sales for the central United States region. Michael's primary responsibilities will be to strategically and tactically grow Woven Electronics' military, commercial and security customer base.

Scott Chester, vice president of business development for Woven Electronics states, "Michael knows what it takes to grow a company in the military and defense markets. He has a long track record of proven success in this industry and Woven Electronics is fortunate to have him on our team."

Michael joins Woven Electronics from Cinch Connectors Inc., where he held the positions of national sales manager, and most recently, was the military and aerospace business segment manager. While at Cinch Michael increased sales and penetration in his market segment along with leading marketing efforts to increase brand awareness. Prior to that Michael worked at AMP, a Tyco Electronics Company, where he held various sales and management positions. Michael earned his bachelor's degree from Northern Illinois University and his master's of business administration from Southern New Hampshire University.
